

Searching for inspiration conference proposal idea prompts

What is the most exciting thing that happened to you last year?

What is the most frustrating thing that happened to you last year?

What real life challenges have you faced that can be related to the library industry?

Is your library using any current trends? How?

Think of new ways to use old tech? Is all old tech outdated?

What's a talk you'd want to see at this conference? Perhaps it's on a technology you're interested in, or a non-technical topic you've wondered or struggled with recently.

Searching for inspiration conference proposal idea prompts

What was the last blog post or presentation in the community that you disagreed with?

What is the last thing you spent more than 15 minute trying to figure out?

Do you have a hobby or interest that informs your work?

What was something you did for the first time in your last project?
How did it work out?

What do you wish you knew a year ago?

What is a tool or process you would like to learn more about?

Searching for inspiration conference proposal idea prompts

What's an accepted practice that "everyone knows" but that you (or others) haven't looked into for a while?

Is there something that irritates you about your work or process? How could it be solved? Perhaps you've solved it already and can share your story, or perhaps you need to do some research first.

What's something you work with fairly regularly and understand 80% of, but not 100%?

What's a new technology or technique that you've heard of recently, but don't know much about?